Diamond Spectacles.

THESE SPECTACLES are manufactured from "MINUTE CRYSTAL PEBBLES" melted together, and are called Diamond on account of their hardness and brilliancy. It is well known that spectacles cut from Brazilian or Scotch pebbles are very injurious to the eye, because of their polarizing light. Having been tested with the polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit fifteen per cent. less heated rays than any other pebble. They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic abberrations, and produces a brightness and distinctness of vision not before attained in spectacles.

Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Comp New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union. H. A. HEATH & CO., Jewelers and Opticians, are sole Agents for Newport, R. I.,—from whom they can only be obtained No peddlers employed. Do not buy any unless you see the trade mark 3p

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1873.

CLAPP & JONES.—A Clapp & Jones steam fire engine has recently been delivered to the city of Toledo. It was tested on the 26th ult. The Toledo Blade says:

The first test was through 300 feet of hose, with 120 pounds of steam and 250 pounds of water pressure through a 1 5-16 inch nozzle. The distance thrown was 263 1-2 feet, against a side wind. One thousand feet of hose was then selected as a test, with a 1 1-2 inch nozzle, but owing to the extremely disagreeable weather and the strong wind, it was abandoned, and the length of hose reduced to 400 feet, and laid around in front of the Board of Trade building, where with the same sized nozzle, with 120 pounds of steam and 270 pounds water pressue, a stream was thrown about 20 feet over the flagstaff which surmounts the Building. An additional hose was put on and with 160 pounds of steam and 172 pounds of water pressure in both lines two streams were thrown far over the staff, a feat never before accomplished in our city. Thus ended a trial which resulted in the perfect satisfaction of all who witnessed it, and secured for the engine the hearty approval of everyone

ARTIFICIAL DIAMONDS.—They make diamonds in Paris now with a very near approach to reality. First, it is necessary to dissolve charcoal. Then follow processes requiring crystallization a mingling of pure water, a little carbonate of sulphur, and certain proportions of liquefied phosphorus. Still, all this may not yield a thoroughly deceptive diamond. Another composition is made from silver sand, very pure potash, minium, calcined borax, and a form of arsenic, varied occasionally by a mixture of strass—a mixture for which an equivalant is paste, and which represents transparent pebbles burnt to powder, white lead, and other similar materials. Some times rock crystal is used, with borax acid from Italy, and nitrate of potash. Of these materials is composed the false diamond, which figures so alluringly in the shop windows of the Palais Royal.

A HINT FOR FARMERS.—Horace Pratt of Easton, Washington County, had a splendid apple crop this year, which he sold for $4 50 per barrel, while his neighbors' trees were barren. The secret of his success is said to lie in the fact that his orchard is on the north side of a hill, land inclining to the north and west, thereby preventing the buds from starting early, and by starting late escaping late frosts.

The Gloucester fishery season of 1873 has been one of the most disastrous ever known. There have been 171 lives lost, and 31 vessels worth $118,700 and insured for $100,918. The Gloucester churches united yesterday in a service commemorative of the dead.

Money lenders who went for a high rate of interest a few months ago, have a unique collection of autographs not quite up to par on their hands.

It is proposed in England to go back to the primitive mode of converting wheat into flour, by crushing the grain instead of grinding it. The cost is said to be only one-fifth of the latter process.

The Boston & Sandwich Glass Company resumed work on Monday; the reduction of wages having been accepted by the boys who struck.

It is a little too bad that we can't have an appointment made without a Congressional investigation. A man is nominated to the Chief Justiceship, and before he is confirmed it is necessary to investigate charges of bribery. Another man is nominated to a foreign mission and immediately he is charged with holding a retainer from the government to which he is accredited, and an investigation is demanded.

THE VIRGINIUS.

The Virginius is no more. Her eventful history came to a tragical conclusion on her way to New York and she now lies at the ocean's bottom off Wilmington, N. C. There is a good deal of mystery about her taking off, and it is suggested that her sinking was not pure accident, but that certain authorities thought it better to cut the gordian knot than to await its untying by a civil court. This suggests a proceeding which is more in the line of a police court shyster than of a great nation.

It is authoritatively reported that the Spanish minister at Washington has presented Secretary Fish with a history of this notorious steamer which the government does not wish published. It proves that she never was an American vessel, and that she could have obtained her American register only through the ignorance or the criminality of our own custom house officers. The vessel was foreign built and of course, never could become American without a special act of Congress and this, it is alleged was never passed.

In 1870 her name was changed from Virgin to Virginius by the custom house authorities at New York, when nothing but a special act of Congress was competent to do this. Even had she been legally an American vessel previously this act was enough to denationalize her. Thus it appears, aside from the alleged fraud of the register granted to Patterson, that she was not an American vessel, and our custom house authorities, in treating her as one, have shown their ignorance of the law or else their contempt for it.

NEUTRALS' RIGHTS.

The appointment of Caleb Cushing to the Madrid mission indicates that there is in prospect some real diplomatic work to be done; something beside the mere interchange of civilities between the Spanish foreign minister and the American envoy. There is no doubt that the whole subject of international law will be overhauled both in the diplomatic correspondence and in the United States Court, when the Virginius is to be tried.

International law is now inadequate. The Virginius is not a pirate for she is not an armed vessel and she disturbed the commerce neither of Spain nor of any other country. She ran no blockade because where there is no war there can be no blockade, and there can be no war where one of the parties is not an acknowledged belligerent. The same logic shows that she violated no neutrality law of the United States. This steamer was a filibuster. But a filibuster is a thing not known to international law. Some provision must be made for the punishment of such vessels.

The question of belligerency and neutrality was not decided at Geneva. It appeared to be, but it is not likely that the peculiar rules of that tribunal will, in their present shape, become a part of the law of nations. The whole question needs to be examined and more dispassionately treated. International law has been made by belligerents, and belligerents are the powerful nations. The weaker nations have not had a fair chance. Thus far the peaceful and quiet nations have been obliged to accept the orders of their more powerful neighbors, and recognize as international law whatever the latter saw fit to promulgate. The Geneva commission only made matters worse by adding to the privileges of belligerents and hampering the action of neutrals. War is a great evil the effects of which ought, so far as possible, to belimited to the combatants. Let the decision of this famous tribunal impose such burdens on neutrals that while they have none of the glory or possible benefits of the war they must bear a very considerable share of its burdens.

Take an example. We have extensive private armories that make the best of fire arms, and profitably employ many of our people. The product of these armories is sold to Russia and Turkey. The Providence Tool Company is now filling a large order for the latter nation while Smith and Wesson of Springfield are working day and night to make pistols for the Russian cavalry. But Russia and Turkey declare war against each other. It is none of our quarrel. Why should it carry its devastations into an innocent country and throw our workmen out of employment?

The rules which our government was so anxious to establish at Geneva would require us, in the case supposed, to stop all sales of arms to either of the combatants and to take the bread out of the mouths of many and Smith and Wesson. In all equity and common sense, why should we, a neutral nation, not in the slightest degree interested in any quarrel between Russia and Turkey, be compelled to do more than to treat both nations exactly alike, and sell to each precisely as if no war existed?

When we brought suit against England at Geneva we were the belligerent nation, and it was natural for us to impose on neutral England as heavy a burden as she would submit to bear. We tried to impose on her an immense burden that she utterly refused to accept and we had to ignominiously back down. In this affair with Spain we are the neutral party and our interests lie in the other balance. In this particular case justice and international good lie with our interest and we hope that the Geneva decisions will be materially modified.

The appointment of Caleb Cushing, the American counsel at Geneva does not look much like any modification on our part of the offensive rules. Of course, in this case Spain has no interest in making any change. We wish William Beach Lawrence, in whose mind politics and temporary interests have not conquered a thorough love of justice and a profound perception of what is for the permanent good, had been appointed to conduct the pending negotiations with Spain.

An order for reducing the salaries of the officers and employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad ten per cent. was officially promulgated yesterday, in Jersey City, N. J., and goes into effect January 1st.

The government of Colombia, South America, is discussing a proposition that a zone twenty five miles wide, covering the Panama and Aspinwall Railroad, shall be free from the effects of revolutions. A protectorate over this zone by the United States is suggested at Panama.

The army board appointed to select a site for a military prison has reported in favor of Fort Leavenworth, at the West, or David's Island, in New York harbor, in case it is deemed advisable to locate the prison on the Atlantic coast.

There are no new developments in the railroad strike at Cincinnati. All passenger trains on the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroads went out today, except one accommodation and the New York night express. All officers capable of running locomotives are doing so. It is hoped that trains will move regularly tomorrow. The hotels and other branches of business feel the effects of the interruption of railroad communication.

The United States authorities at New York are collecting evidence on which to base proceedings against the Virginius and her owner or owners. John F. Patterson, who claims to be the owner of the vessel, has addressed a letter to the Secretary of State, sharply criticising and protesting against the recent decision of the Attorney-General. The United States steamship Ossipee arrived at New York last night, but without the Virginius, and it is reported that the latter vessel has sunk.

The members of the brotherhood of engineers in Chicago have passed resolutions that they are not disposed to submit to any reduction of the wages that they were receiving prior to the first, as that rate was low enough, although it gave general satisfaction. They also tendered their sympathy and promised their support to all engineers now opposing or who may hereafter oppose any reduction of wages. These resolutions are published and signed by committees from the Illinois Central, Chicago and Alton, Rock Island, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and Milwaukee and St. Paul, and the Michigan Central railroads.

Monday night three roughs entered the restaurant of Wm. Hile, a German, on Delaware avenue, and asked for drinks. Being refused, they assaulted and beat the wife of Hile, who, in response to her cries for help, entered the bar-room with a double-barrelled gun, one load of which he discharged. The contents struck his wife in the back of the head, instantly killing her. The roughs then fled, pursued by Hile, who fired the other load, wounding one in the shoulder. Hile went to the station-house and gave himself up. The three roughs were arrested.

Canon Kingsley on England.

As Canon Kingsley—so much better known here as Charles Kingsley, the novelist—is about to visit this city, his public utterances are of special interest at this time. On the evening of the 7th inst. he gave a lecture at Chelsea, England, on "History," which is thus reported:

Canon Kingsley began by saying that history was a subject of which he knew little, although he had read much. The history of the British empire was one long continued struggle between different nations—one of selfishness and cunning—and a continued record of human folly, weakness and crime. The history of England was really a large subject to talk upon and full of interest; and, to use the old scriptural words, they were a "favored people," who had been helped strangely, and without apparent reason, for a higher Power had seen capacities in them which fitted them for great ends, and they must grow either upwards or downwards. Paradoxical as it might seem, he was of opinion that the Norman conquest was the making of the English people—the free commons of England. Speaking of the attempted conquest of France, he said that the English were driven back to the boundary of the sea, a position which, he trusted, would always be invincible. They then settled down into their insular position, to which England owed its greatness, and became necessarily a sea-going people; but all this, he maintained, would not have been brought about were it not for the Maid of Orleans.

In conclusion he said that people were inclined to laugh at Macaulay's well known New Zealander standing on a broken arch to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's; but Macaulay was not, he was of opinion, a man to be laughed at; he perfectly knew, he said, and believed this view to be true. England, the lecturer thought, would some day share the same fate as other countries, and from this they should learn the lesson of humility. The English nation had been built up very slowly. It was characteristic of the people that they never knew when they were beaten; they possessed a steady power of conquering all difficulties, and when making mistakes to try again. There were only two races, he thought, the English and the Jews, that this power of never knowing when they were

PERSONALS.

.....Sir James Colvile recently, in London, gave judgment in the case, "Futtehsaugjo Jaswantsanji vs. Kullianraiji Hakeomatraigi," which raised a novel question that was almost as difficult as the names of the defendant and plaintiff.

.....Marshal Bazaine will be allowed to walk about the island of Sainte Marguerite, his place of "seclusion." His wife, who is near her confinement, has solicited permission to live with her husband, and it is generally believed that this request will be granted.

.....M. Boris Dauzas, who was M. Gatecrazy's secretary of legation, and who remained in Washington as chargé d'affaire a short time after the little diplomat left, has just been married in Constantinople to Mlle. Arghiropoulo, daughter of another Russian civil service official. M. Dauzas is now attached to the Russian mission at Athens.

.....Disraeli has had placed on the monument in memory of his father, which was erected by the Viscountess Beaconsfield on her estate at Hughenden, the inscription—"Mary Anne Disraeli, Viscountess Beaconsfield, ob. December 15, 1872. O dulcis conjux."

.....Mrs. Banks was a most determined woman. She lived in Dudley, England, but was determined not to do so any longer. Therefore she made a loop of her clothes line, and, standing on a table and upraised on her toes, pressed her throat against the lower side of the loop until suffocation achieved her death.

.....The Prussian lieutenant, Stumm, who accompanied the Russian expedition to Khiva, had the misfortune, while traversing the Steppes, to lose his iron cross, acquired by meritorious service in the French war, and which, according to Prussian custom, he wore continually on his breast. Great efforts were made to recover the cherished decoration, but in vain. At length the search was abandoned as hopeless. A few days ago a parcel reached the lieutenant, officially directed to him by the Russian Government. To his surprise and joy it contained the valued cross, which the Russian authorities had spared no pains in seeking, and which had fortunately been found.

Advices are received by the Treasury department showing that American drills have been almost wholly displaced in the Chinese market through the imitation of American trade marks and underselling by British manufacturers.

THE TOMB OF TIME.

I

It was the midnight hour. I stood alone
Beneath the stars in a deserted land,
Where cold winds swept across the wastes of sand
Amongst the meagre herbage making moans.
I saw a pyramid of polished stone,
Black as the blackest ebony, and grand
As though it had been built by God's right hand.
A gloomy temple Death might call his own.
A portal was upon the northern side,
And fiery letters in an unknown tongue
And from the arch a flaming censer hung
Which threw a baleful radiance far and wide.
I saw the massive gates were open flung—
I wished to enter but my courage died.

II

And as I pondered, trembling, lo! there came
Across the yellow sands a solemn throng;
The air was burdened with a mournful song,
And torches flaming with a ghostly flame
Wierd shadows cast upon an ebon frame
Whereon a coffin lay with trappings hung.
Slowly and solemnly they moved along
And reached the portal of the mystic name.
They entered and I followed. With a clang
The gates shut to, and through the vaulted hall.
The awful echoes thundering rang and rang.
And died away in tones funereal.
Then on my ear did saddening music fall
And hear choked voices with an organ song.

III

A dirge they sang unto the year just dead—
The old year which had reached the Tomb of Time.
The organ tones amid the vault did chime;
But not a dead year lifted up his head,
Silent they lay as where they first were laid,
With all their records of good deeds or crime;
In riches fated by a Fate sublime,
For Fate by even kings must be obeyed.
I saw them lying there all cold and still
Each in his place—dead years—the vanished past.
My eyes could follow that high wall until
My sight was dimmed, the distance was so vast.
And lo! I saw there was one less to fill
For in his place the old year lay at last.

The Troubles of Witnesses.

Editor of the News:—

SIR; as reformation seems to be the grand "Sine qua non," of the day, allow me if you please a small space in the columns of your paper to give a few suggestions which demand consideration of the professors of law, the public and those who are called upon to decide on the destinies of others.

We admire the independent course, the wise and prudent decision of the Hon. Judge Davis of New York, in calling to an account the insolence of some of the popular attorneys at law. It is to be hoped for the benefit of the profession and for the credit of our courts in Rhode Island, that measures will be adopted to treat witnesses with decent respect when they are reluctantly dragged into court to tell what they know relating to the case on trial. Our judges are of the highest legal talent and of large experience, and the Rhode Island bar has the credit of being the best trained and most expert of any in New England; yet there are many things practised by some of them that need reforming, more specially in the treatment of witnesses, who are compelled against their own will to attend the court, where perhaps they have to spend days in waiting for the case to be called up for which they were summoned. Their fees for the time spent are inadequate to meet the expenses of food at an ordinary boarding house, to say nothing of their time and duties with their families at home.

We will for illustration of the way witnesses generally are used, take the case of A. pending against B. By the request of A's counsel, he has some half dozen or more of his witnesses to appear before him the day or evening before the trial. The counsel makes a thorough examination—he hears each one's story in the presence of each other, and each one hears each other's story. Their stories are familiar, and we believe it often becomes so impressed upon their memory, that an error becomes established in their mind as a truth. These witnesses are drilled and disciplined as much as a district school teacher instructs his pupils before a public exhibition. When such a witness is sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, such a witness knows by his instructions just what part of the examination he has to perform and what replies to make, as an actor upon the theatrical stage. Every thing goes along smoothly with such witnesses, until they are handed over to the opposing counsel for cross examination. The natural result is, that instead of coming directly to the truth, they are guarding and fortifying themselves against being caught by the strategy and craft of the opposing counsel.; B. also comes into court with his witnesses perhaps he does not know either of them. They are individually called to take the witness stand, before the judge, the lawyer, the jury and a host of spectators; many probably that never appeared before a court in their life time. The inexperienced youth, or a female, feels a peculiar diffidence in thus being placed before a public assembly; and the natural result is, that they feel nervous, their minds become confused and agitated, and while they intend to tell the truth in a plain and simple manner, they are often interrupted and driven by the opposing counsel in his compound interrogatories, to say things or answer yes, when they design to answer no. Here is a difficulty and a wrong in lawyers, to try to confound and bewilder a witness, that needs a remedy, and the application of reform, to meet the demands of justice.

To apply a remedy let the court take charge of the witness, and indeed it is its duty to see that the rights of the witness are not shamefully abused, let them tell their story in their own plain and simple way, and not leave them to the mercy of the contesting counsel to hamboosled and frighten them out of their better feelings and conscientious understandings, for in nine cases out of ten, the witness will make a gross error under such treatment, when he truthfully intends to give a correct statement of what he actually knows.

When the attorney gets up to make his plea, in reviewing the testimony, he is allowed without restraint from the court, to brow-beat, scandalize, defame and vilify the reputation of the witness; endeavouring to bring an honest witness into contempt, hatred, or infamy, regardless of age or sex. We have known a respectable lawyer as he called himself, brow-beat and defame an old gentleman between eighty and ninety years of age who had always sustained a Christian character and stood high in the estimation of all who knew him. Here again there is great need of reformatory measure. Such a practice ill becomes a gentleman, and no well bred attorney at law will be guilty of such dastardly conduct. It is a discredit to any court that allows such practice.

There are some lawyers, where a plain simple witness is striving to overcome his weakness, and to tell facts in the best language he is able command, resort to every strategy they possibly can devise, to bewilder and confuse the truth telling witness, and even hastily rise from their seat, and rush up before a witness with a malicious frown, and boldly confront him, as if he designed to knock him down and drag him from the witness stand, simply because he could not conscientiously answer his intricate and double meaning question agreeably to what the counsel desired.

Can it be supposed, or can any reasonable person believe that the inexperienced witness placed in such an embarrassed position, can compose his mind under such circumstances to give a correct and clear statement of facts he knows relating to the case on trial? Our own experience and common sense and reason, peremptorily answer the question, No!

We believe that this palpable evil needs the application of reform, and ought to be made a particular subject of comment by the people, the clergy and the press.

RIXATOR.

Little Compton, Dec. 31, 1873.

Marshal Bazaine's Sentence.

Foreign files bring further details of the final scenes in the Bazaine trial and the results attending it. When the judgment of a court-martial is rendered, the accused is not present. The prosecutor takes it to him privately, accompanied by a file of soldiers, and reads it to him. George Lachaud had hurried to the marshal to announce the fact, and he read at once upon the young man's face what the verdict was. In a few moments the tramp of soldiers was heard, and the marshal calmly descended the stairs to meet the prosecutor. The marshal bowed stiffly. The prosecutor then handed the roll to the clerk, who read it aloud. The marshal thereupon said, quietly, "Very well, Monsieur Pouroet; have me shot, and as soon as possible." Gen. Pouroet shook his head energetically, but the marshal left him before he could master his agitation enough to frame a reply. On rejoining his friends the marshal said: "I presume that my judges acted conscientiously as I have always done. If they think that my life can be useful to the army, they are right in taking it. My only fear would be having my own conscience against me, and it reproaches me for nothing; nothing. With that feeling one is always strong."

He then said that he had but one favor to ask, and the officer of the guard said that he would grant it if he could. "Oh! it is a very simple favor," said Bazaine; "I only ask that my son (a boy of eight years) may remain with me the entire day." This was granted, all the more readily as it was feared that, hearing he was not to be shot, the marshal might take his own life. After this," he said more than once, "I have lived long enough." One of his friends pronounced the name of Gambetta, who has triumphed completely, and who has been rehabilitated by this verdict, and said that the marshal ought to hate that man. "Hate him!" replied Bazaine, "Do you hate a child who tries to bite you? You pull his ears, and that is all. M. Gambetta is nothing but a grand enfant. To sum up everything, I am yet in debt to him. He called me a traitor once, but for more than three months I was his 'Brave Bazaine,' his 'Glorious Bazaine,' a 'Hero,' a 'Demi-God.' You see that I am yet in his debt." He shrugged his shoulders, with a smile, and then continued: "You see, my dear friend, the clear moral of this process; it is that in our times there is more profit and less danger in the profession of advocate than in that of a marshal of France."

A few moments later Bazaine went away with his little boy. After the lapse of some minutes, Madame Bazaine, whose soul was lacerated by this spectacle, accompanied by her daughter, Maitre Lachaud and Col. Lucciani, retired to the chapel to pray. As soon as the judgment was rendered, word was sent to the president, who had a large dinner party that evening. "Condemned to death!" he cried; turning very pale and sinking down into a chair, he let his head fall into his hands. "But," said the officer, "all the members of the court have signed an appeal to executive clemency." "That is to say," cried MacMahon, starting up, "That is to say that they have thrown the responsibility upon me. Very well! I am not afraid of it. The journals say that I cannot use my right of mercy without losing my personal popularity, but that consideration will not deter me." A few minutes afterward the Duc d'Aumale came in and was coolly received, after which he left at once to take charge of the seventh corps d'armee, one of the most important, at Besancon. The bishop of Orleans then called upon MacMahon, and M. Thiers wrote him a letter strongly urging him to mercy. The dinner of the evening was countermanded.

Meanwhile the marshal had rejoined his friends up stairs, and appeared greatly relieved, talking about the proceeding rather as he would of one that related to somebody else and not himself. A few minutes after a very affecting separation from his family, he retired to his private study with Maitre Lachaud, who brought him the document, signed by all the judges, containing the recommendation to mercy. Lachaud in vain endeavored to obtain Bazaine's signature to this petition. So far, indeed, was he from consenting to this, that even after a seemingly quiet night's rest, Bazaine wrote a letter to Maitre Lachaud, thanking him with all his soul for the heroic efforts made by Lachaud in sustaining his cause. "If," said the marshal, "the words of the greatest eloquence which you have borrowed from the sentiment of truth and in the devotion of your noble heart could not convince my judges, it was because they could not be convinced; for in your admirable speech you have surpassed human effort. I will not sue for mercy. I do not wish to prolong before the whole world the sight of a struggle so sad, and I beg you to take no steps in my behalf. I do not wish to be judged more by men. It is from time and the abatement of passions that I hope for my justification. I await the execution of my sentence firm and resolved, strong in my conscience, which does not reproach me in anything.

After learning the commutation of his sentence, Marshal Bazaine wrote a letter to Marshal MacMahon, thanking him for remembering the day in which they had served their country together, although he feared that the impulse of his heart overmastered state considerations. "I should have died without regret," said the marshal, "since the recommendation to mercy made to you by my judges vindicates my honor." Maitre Lachoud wrote to M. Thiers, thanking him, in the marshal's name and his own, for believing his client innocent of the charges made against him, for encouraging the defence by his sympathy for the accused, and for having assisted him by his advice. The island of St. Marguerite, on which Marshal Bazaine will spend the twenty years of his detention in one of the Isles de Lerins, and is situated exactly opposite Cannes, at the distance of little more than a mile from the shore. It is some three miles long and less than a mile broad. The state prison in which the Marshal will be confined is a fort placed on the northern side of the island, looking in a northeasterly direction towards Antibes. Arab prisoners from Algiers have sometimes been detained there. The fort is the only building on St. Marguerite, the remainder of its surface being covered with orange trees and myrtles.

Thomas Corrigan is held for trial on the charge of causing the death of A. Angelott by killing him with a stone last October.

Two Foes of Health.

Cold and damp are inimical to health, and we generally have an unwholesome combination of the two at this season. They penetrate the skin and integuments and affect the muscular, glandular and nervous organizations, producing rheumatism, neuralgia, chills and fever, and where there is a tendency to dyspepsia or liver complaint, provoking an attack of indigestion or biliousness. The best advice that can be given under such circumstances is to keep the external surface of the body warmly clothed, and to keep the internal organs in vigorous working order with the most wholesome and general of all tonics, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Gradually but constantly this famous invigorant is superseding the adulterated liquors of commerce, as a medicinal stimulant and corrective, in all parts of the country. It will be a happy day for humanity, and it will surely come, when this pure restorative shall have taken the place of raw spirits as a stimulant in all our public and private hospitals. It is not, however, merely a harmless substitute for the fiery stimulants referred to. Its stimulating properties are not its chief merits, although in this regard it surpasses all the medicated cordials of the still, domestic or imported. The powerful influence it exercises over the torpid and toneless stomach, the disordered liver, the constipated bowels, and the relaxed nerves, render it a positive specific in dyspepsia, liver complaint, intestinal constriction, dertyous weakness, hypochondria, rheumatism and sleeplessness. All chronic complaints are aggravated by a cold, moist atmosphere, and it is therefore particularly necessary for those who are afflicted with all the evils of this nature, whatever their type may be, to meet this pernicious cause of sickness with a wholesome antidote. Hostetter's Bitters should be taken daily at this season by all persons laboring under chronic ailments that tend to weaken the system.

CHAPPED HANDS, face, rough skin, pimples, ring worm, salt-rheum and other cutaneous affections cured, and the skin made soft and smooth, by using the delicious TAR SOAP, made by CASWELL, HAZARD & Co., New York. Be certain to get the Juniper Tar Soap, as there are many imitations made with common tar which are worthless. dec22-4w

CURTIS.—Relief in five minutes. DR. CRISPIN, 179 Broad street, Providence, R. I.

PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the VEGETINE is the great remedy, as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing tumors of all kinds to disappear.

Newport Daily News.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1873.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A prominent member of the administration, on being informed that the Virginius had struck while being towed to New York, replied that he hoped it was true, as it would relieve our government of a very troublesome and embarrassing question.

CUSHING.

It is semi-officially announced that the appointment of General Cushing is to be the adoption of an entirely new programme in regard to our policy toward Spain. The instructions which the President and Secretary Fish have directed Cushing to prepare, look to a very enlarged field of diplomatic operations, and one which will prevent a recurrence of the possibility of Virginius affairs.

DIPLOMACY.

This can be accomplished by a treaty between the two governments, which Cushing will be empowered to make, defining more clearly the authority of either power to ascertain the character of vessels suspected to be engaged in filibustering expeditions. Propositions will soon be submitted to Spain of such a character as to insure, in the event of their acceptance, peace and quiet upon the island of Cuba, either through a compromise between the insurgents and the Madrid government, or some equally effectual method.

CUBA.

It is sufficient to add in this connection, that our government does not seek the annexation of that island, and that it will be satisfied with any arrangement which will free the United States from the constant possibility of the recurrence of many unpleasant controversies which have occurred since the insurrection began.

MORE MONEY.

The announcement that the Secretary of the Interior intended to submit a letter asking for an increase of nearly two million dollars for the Indian Department, caused a good deal of surprise. The adoption of the peace policy has largely augmented, each year, the expenses of governing and taking care of the Indians.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The Cuban patriots here are not very well pleased with the appointment of Mr. Cushing to the Spanish ministry, and a strong effort will be made to prevent his confirmation in the Senate. It is claimed that Mr. Cushing has for some time past been retained by the Spanish Government; also, that the recent opinion rendered by the attorney-general on the status of the Virginius was prompted by him, as I that it was prepared and ready for the signature of the latter before the notice of the surrender of the Virginius was received at Washington.

THE VIRGINIUS.

The main topic of interest and conversation here today is the sinking at sea of the celebrated vessel Virginius. The officers of the Ossipee refuse to give any particulars of the disaster, but a sailor, in reply to a question, said that he did not hear whether the Virginius went down from injuries which she had sustained before her departure or during her voyage. He could not say whether the fact of sinking so unexpectedly was the result of a severe storm; however, a very severe gale prevailed outside the harbor on Friday evening last, and, taking this circumstance in connection with the fact that she was generally reported as unseaworthy, he had no doubt that these two circumstances combined were sufficient to sink any ship of her class and condition.

THE CREW.

That the Virginius, he proceeded, is sunk and at this time at the bottom of the ocean is decidedly beyond controversy. In reply to a further question, the sailor said that he was unable to tell whether any of the crew or all of them were saved. He had heard one of the men, he believed, say that the crew had been saved, but not having heard the fact from the captain he could not say with reasonable certainty that they were saved. His individual opinion was that the crew of the Virginius were saved.

THE GENERAL SHERMAN.

Our government began good work in seizing the steamer General Sherman, which, while bearing the American flag, was engaged in conveying filibustering expeditions against states at peace with our country. The intelligence from Panama reminds us of the active part which has been taken by the Montijo in the revolutionary movements of Central America. This vessel is now posted by at Aspinwall, bearing the American flag. It is the duty of our government to prevent an abuse of the flag in this case as well as in that of the General Sherman, and a rigid inquiry should be instituted.

PACIFIC MAIL.

Rufus Hatch, vice-president and managing director of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, has made a great reduction in the rates of freight and passage from New York to San Francisco. The steerage passage is now only $50 currency, and the cabin passage from $100 to 150, or for both ways, $200.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Mr. Hamel, an official of the Board of Trade, opened an enquiry into the Ville du Havre disaster today. He stated the object was to elicit the facts. There was no desire to prefer criminal charges against any one. The second and third mates of the Loch Earn were the first witnesses examined.

They testified that they did everything in their power to prevent the collision, and described the efforts they made to attract the attention of those on board the steamer. The hearing of their testimony as to the conduct of the French officers after the collision was postponed, as the latter have not yet arrived and the owners of the steamer had no counsel present to represent them.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 30.—The iron manufacturing interest of the Lehigh and Schuylkill valleys, which was greatly depressed during the financial panic, has almost recovered from the repression. In the Schuylkill district, fifty-three out of seventy-three iron works are now in full operation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 30.—The engineers' strike continues without material change. One passenger train went out this morning on the Pan Handle railroad, one on the Jeffersonville road, and trains have arrived on both roads. The Vincennes road is running its passenger trains regularly. Rumors are still current of a general strike on all the roads, but seem to be without foundation. From present appearances the strike is nearly at an end.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 30.—All the striking engineers in this city and vicinity have refused to accept the offers of the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis Railroad Company and none of them resumed work yesterday. At a meeting of the Brotherhood last night, the authority of Grand Chief Engineer Wilson was disavowed, and the reported acts of violence by the striking engineers elsewhere were strongly condemned. No violence whatever in this vicinity has been reported.

BRIDGEPORT, Mo., Dec. 30.—The coroner's jury on the recent Eastern Railroad collision have rendered a verdict charging that the accident was owing to the incompetency and negligence of Mr. Wing, the dispatcher, the gross error in the judgment of White, the Kennebunk operator, and the culpable recklessness of Pettis, the conductor, and Morrison, the engineer of the down freight.

HAVANA, Dec. 30.—The Loma government has relieved Gen. Burriel of the command of the Eastern Department, because, in a proclamation issued last week he attacked the existing administration in Spain. He has been ordered to appear at Madrid to answer charges preferred against him in relation to this matter.

Captain General Jouvellar insists that the government shall accept his resignation, unless he is granted in full the extraordinary powers enjoyed by his predecessors. The government has conceded the increased powers, but they are restricted by certain conditions.

SANTA FE, Dec. 30.—Reliable reports have just reached here that the trouble in Lincoln county, in this territory, between Americans and Mexicans, is daily growing more serious. Since the last report, on the 10th, six or seven more persons have been killed. It seems the friends of the Americans previously killed went to Lincoln Plaza last Saturday, where a dance was in progress, and trouble arose between the Americans and Mexicans, which finally culminated fatally, as above stated. Some reports say eight men and one woman were shot. Other reports give the number six men and one woman. Intense excitement prevails, and it is feared more bloodshed will follow.

NEW YORK ITEMS.

Capt. Holbrook, of the Staten Island police, who attempted suicide, is still alive.

Mary Maloy, while intoxicated, was fatally burned by her clothes taking fire from a stove.

De La Platte Wiley, a leading Spiritualist, formerly of Connecticut, committed suicide in a paint-shop where he was lately employed.

After an investigation the accounts of the Brooklyn street commissioner are reported to be short about $46,000.

The suit of McCue against Demas Barnes, for $100,000 for libel, has been postponed a week. It is expected it will be tried in January.

The trial of Maggie Jordan, for aiding in the escape of Sharkey, convicted of murder, from the Tombs, was begun to-day in the Court of General Sessions.

Ten hundred and seventy recruits arrived at the Navy Yard Monday from New Orleans. There are men enough now on the Vermont to man the Dictator, Florida and Minnesota.

Police Captain Bourne, charged with maltreating a prisoner, after a full examination was honorably discharged by the Court, and the man he arrested is held for trial for assault on the Captain.

Alfred Wright, partner in the firm of Price & Co., merchant tailors, at the corner of Broadway and Fourth street, was found dying in his store Monday morning. He had fallen in the hallway while intoxicated.

The Trial of Ex-Senator Graham, late President of the Walkill National Bank, charged with embezzling $400,000, funds of the bank, was commenced this afternoon in the United States Court before Judge Benedict. The jury was obtained, and the Court adjourned until to-morrow.

Amil Stouger is under arrest charged with setting fire to a tenement house in Brooklyn. There were nine families in the house, but by the exertions of two young men the flames, which were in the stairway and from kerosene, were extinguished.

The deputy sheriffs who have gone in search of Genet have traced him to Canada, and have got him inside a circle of 100 miles with the principal points of escape well guarded. Great confidence is expressed that the deputies will have the fugitive back in New York by Monday next.

In the United States court today Josiah Warren was put on trial for the murder of Eldon C. Staples, second mate of the American bark Helen Augier off Queenstown, Ireland on the 25th of August last. The testimony showed that the mate was in the habit of abusing Warren, and had assaulted him with a heavy bucket, when Warren drew a knife and stabbed him in the abdomen, causing death. The jury after an absence of a few minutes, returned a verdict of not guilty. Warren is a native of Boston and bears a good reputation. The mate was a native of New Hampshire.

The Methodist ministers met this morning at the mission rooms, No 805 Broadway. After the usual preliminary devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Reed made a very elaborate statement of the affairs of the Methodist missions in Germany, holding that the mission was a great success, although considerable opposition had been encountered. He also spoke at length of the good work of the Evangelical Alliance. Rev. E. O. Haven, ex-President of the Northwestern University replied forcibly to the main points of Dr. Reed's remarks on the Evangelical Alliance, saying that the Alliance was called at random and devoted to the reading of compositions and making addresses. He proposed ecclesiastical arbitration as a means of settling denominational quarrels. Rev. Dr. Reed then combatted the argument of his opponent.

The Magic Inkstand.

This is the very appropriate title of a new invention just introduced into this country, and for sale by Messrs. Bugbee & Hall, 67 Westminster street, Providence. It is patented in France and Great Britain by the eminent book publishers, Messrs. Hachette & Co., Paris, and Sampson, Low & Co., London. Fifty thousand of these useful articles, it is said, have been sold in Europe in less than six months. It is regarded as a perfect marvel of economy, durability and simplicity. The Magic Inkstand, it is claimed, produces ink of the best quality in every desirable color; ink, moreover, which is not affected by acid, climate or temperature, which does not oxydize the pen (a valuable feature), and which leaves no sediment. It is made in a few minutes, and is always renewable simply by the addition of pure water. It is well adapted for use in the counting-house, office, school-room or parlor. Price, two dollars.—Providence Journal.

PAIN-KILLER!
FOR OVER THIRTY YEARS
Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain-Killer
Has been tested in every variety of climate, and by almost every nation known to Americans.

It is the constant companion and reliable friend of the missionary and traveler, on sea and land, and no one should travel on our Lakes or Rivers without it.

It has been before the public over thirty years, and probably has a wider and better reputation than any other proprietary medicine of the present day. At this period there are but few unacquainted with the merits of the Pain-Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands today, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of family medicines. It is sufficient evidence of its virtues as a standard medicine, to know that it is now used in all parts of the world and that its sale is constantly increasing. No curative agent has had such wide spread sale or given such universal satisfaction. It is a purely vegetable compound, and perfectly safe in unskillful hands.

After thirty years trial, is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues, from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the first respectability, recommend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruises, Cuts, Burns, &c., but for Dysentery or Cholera or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become the standard Medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and other kindred disorders. For Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine.

BEWARE OF ALL IMITATIONS.

The Pain-Killer is sold by all respectable druggists throughout the United States and foreign countries.

CARE OF DAIRY STOCK IN WINTER.—The question in the wintering of any stock is, not that which costs the least present money but that which pays best in the end. The production of milk and the yearly birth of a calf are such great drains upon the vital energies that the cow, and especially the young one not yet matured, requires a full share of the most nutritious food to keep the system in perfect condition. She requires not only good food but absolutely good shelter and perfect quiet. If this all be carefully attended to, we should hear but little of vicious animals and the unproductiveness of dairy stock.

One of the first requisites for properly wintering cows is an abundance of the best quality of early cut and well cured hay. If this be not obtainable, more grain must be taken in the succeeding season in this respect; for, however cheap grain may be, unless supplemented with good, bright hay or corn fodder, the best results cannot be reached. Indeed it is too often the case that the damaged hay is placed in the mow or stack with the better quality of hay. This not only injures the latter, but the former gains nothing by its being so placed; and the cows which should have the best are obliged to fare with other cattle of less value.

The cows should be placed under shelter during all cool nights in the fall and in the winter should be constantly stabled except when taking the necessary exercise. Feed liberally and uniformly in the fall and early winter and the stock will not have to be crowded in the spring to bring them to the proper condition. Keep the cows in good flesh; not really fat, but in such condition as is called fat by ordinary judges, and they will amply repay the feed in the following season.

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.
